

Socialization and education at home

- ❖ The most common question facing educating families at home.
- ❖ Often the "only" concern of people.
- ❖ "The real world" is nothing like the atmosphere offered by the school.
- ❖ This reality is very different from the classroom and in turn is very similar to the natural environment of the home-educated student.

Socialization and education at home

As a rule, the home-educated student, in addition to sharing with their siblings of different ages, participates in support group activities, sports, artistic, religious and/or community activities.
