

University Admission

- ❖ Many universities actively recruit home-educated, motivated by student skill beyond formal transcripts, diplomas, or exam scores. Prestigious universities in the EU use recruiters ("scouts") to search for "homeschoolers".

There are countless resources to guide the home-educated youth on how to achieve this goal.
- ❖ Many home-educated students eventually choose apprenticeship, or other alternatives, over formal schooling as a faster and more fulfilling way to enter their adult lives. It should be noted that college is not necessarily the only or best option for every young person. Nor is the decision not to attend it irrevocable.
- ❖ Volunteering is a great opportunity for the student to experience what the work environment would be like and understand what it means to have a career beyond assumptions or preconceived ideas.
